VISION

Think starting up, think CoworkCity

Not just virtual offices —
the name for starting up.

MISSION

Starting up, easy. Trying, fun!

01 Remove what is not the business

We break down complex, unfamiliar steps so founders can stay fully on the real work.

02 Lower the bar to try

Instead of fear and weight, anyone with will and an idea can create value and enjoy the attempt.

OUR BEGINNING

From a shared office to startup infrastructure

Running a shared office in Daejeon, we kept hearing the same friction from founders — and became certain the need was real.

The market was still unfamiliar in Korea, but we were certain a virtual address service would become core infrastructure for the startup ecosystem.

01

Market gap

Daejeon had no branded shared office and far less supply than demand. We started from a regional base.

02

Market response

We opened the office, listed a virtual address, and made the first sale the very next day.

03

Systemised

From the address contract to business registration, incorporation, bookkeeping and mail — every step now runs inside the platform in a few clicks.

COWORKCITY'S BEGINNING

The road CoworkCity has walked

We began in 2022 with a business address service at our Daejeon head office. Adding incorporation and trademark filing since then, we are solving the steps a founder cannot skip, one at a time.

Now CoworkCity is moving beyond those first steps, expanding into a startup platform that stays with your business as it grows.

VAT and corporate tax filing dates are tracked for you.

Business registration & tax credits

Key deadlines arrive as KakaoTalk alerts in advance.

TRADEMARK

Protecting your brand rights, trademark registration

Check in advance whether a similar mark to your brand name exists, then attorneys at a partner IP firm review it and file.

*You can file before your business registration.

☐ STEP 1*Trademark search

Check similar marks and filing prospects in public records.

☐ STEP 2*Apply to file

Application and payment run online.

☐ STEP 3*Expert review

A partner attorney reviews, files and answers examinations.

A trademark system wired straight into KIPO data

01

Direct KIPRIS API integration

Before filing we screen identical and similar marks automatically against KIPO data; after filing we pull the registered status as it stands. Nothing is retyped, so what you see is the latest KIPO record.

KIPRIS mark search · status lookup API

02

Automatic status tracking

Publication, registration and refusal are detected in KIPO data every day and the status updates itself. Even an office action is picked up automatically, and guidance goes out.

Daily sync · automatic stage transitions ·
OA detection

03

Official designated-goods data

Classes and designated goods are selected from KIPO's published list instead of free text, so only accepted wording is filed — with similarity codes shown alongside.

283,771 published names · 45 Nice
classes · 821 similarity codes

Registrability report

An attorney reviews prior marks and distinctiveness, and suggests changes to the mark or goods

Automatic alerts

Every stage change is sent straight to you by KakaoTalk alert

E-signed power of attorney

No paper to post — the mandate is completed by email e-signature

Trademark

A trademark matters at these moments

Naming the business

Check first whether the name is already registered

Once the business is running, a name clash can force a full brand and logo overhaul — this heads that risk and cost off early

Starting to sell online

Marketplaces and brand registries ask for a trademark

Qualifies you for a 'brand store' listing on major marketplaces, and blocks others from copying your name or knocking off your products

Raising or partnering

Brand rights come up in due diligence

In IR or M&A due diligence, IP ownership is a core item for valuation and legal risk checks
